

Abstract of the Disclosure

The present invention provides a printing process for forming a pattern on an earplug. More specifically, the earplug may be orientated and transferred to a printing device which forms the pattern on the earplug. The printing device may comprise an ink jet printer. The pattern may be formed of any number of colors and may comprise a custom logo, printed text decorative pattern or any other pattern.

7-06-2000